

DEPOSE SULTAN, NAME ANOTHER; ALL IN ONE DAY

Young Turks Decide Abdul Hamid Must Quit, And Choose Mehmed As His Successor.

HAMID IS A CLOSE PRISONER NOW

The Younger Turks Are In Complete Control Of The Situation, Although Civil War Is Feared On Part Of Troops In The Interior—Adana Scene Of New Horrors.

(By Associated Press.)
Constantinople, April 27.—Abdul Hamid II. has been deposed as Sultan of the Turkish empire, and Mehmed Reşad Effendi, his brother, will be proclaimed his successor this afternoon.
The deposition will be through the regular form prescribed by the tenets of the Mohammedan faith.
The news of the deposition has caused great excitement throughout all of Constantinople, both foreign and Turkish.
Crowds at once began to gather on the principal thoroughfares and around the Imperial palace at Yıldız in anticipation of the proclamation of the new Sultan.
Fifty Turkish officers have been arrested at Erzerum by their troops and dispatched under escort to Trebizond.
The exact significance of this action is not yet clear, but it is feared it means the beginning of a revolt of the provincial troops against the Young Turk officers.
There was a fresh outbreak of fanaticism and murder last night at Adana, accompanied by looting and incendiarism.
The situation there is most critical and much more trouble is anticipated.
It is reported here the Sultan was removed from the Imperial palace and conveyed across the Bosphorus to a point in Asiatic Turkey.
A salute of a hundred and one guns was fired at half-past two this afternoon, which announced to the waiting populace a change in Sultan.
Mehmed Reşad Effendi, who was proclaimed Sultan of Turkey at half-past two this afternoon in succession to his brother, Abdul Hamid. The latter was deposed by the national assembly, whose decision on the proposal was unanimous.
At Adana, April 27.—Herbert Adams Gibbons, a missionary of the American board of foreign missions stationed here and at Tarsus, was an eyewitness of the scenes of destruction. He says the village of Adana was visited for five days by mobs and massacres of Armenians, the worst ever known in the history of the district. The government was powerless to check the disorders.
During the massacres Adana was on fire and there was continuous shooting and killing in every part of the town.
The corpses lie scattered through the streets, and he had to pick his way between the dead to avoid stepping on them.
At Tarsus the Armenian quarter was completely destroyed.
Is Hamid Dead
London, April 27.—A Constantinople dispatch says rumors are current that Abdul Hamid is dead.
The new Sultan was proclaimed as Mehmed V. Abdul Hamid is now a prisoner in the hands of young Turks and is being carefully guarded.

Temple, Texas, April 27.—The annual convention of the Texas Daughters of the King's Daughters assembled here today with an attendance of delegates and visitors from all parts of the state. The gathering will remain in session until Saturday.

RELIGIOUS LIBERALS HOLDING CONGRESS

Oscar S. Straus, Charles Bonaparte, Bocher Washington, and Other Notables To Speak.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—Prominent men representing various religious denominations have arrived here from all parts of the country to attend the Congress of the National Federation of Religious Liberals which will open a three days' session in the Friends' Meeting House on Race street, tonight. The platform of the federation contains the declaration that mutual tolerance and good will between all classes, races and churches of the republic constitute a fundamental condition of religious and civil progress. The object of these congresses is to bring distinguished men representing various classes, races and religions together and give them an opportunity to express their ideas on mutual tolerance and good will.
At the opening session tonight addresses on "Tolerance and Good Citizenship" will be given by Oscar S. Straus, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor; Charles J. Bonaparte, former Attorney General of the United States; President W. H. P. Fanning of Brown University; Bocher T. Washington, of Tennessee. A letter by President Taft on the subject of "Religion and Politics" will be read.
Topics to be treated at the subsequent meetings are: "Liberal Religion" by the Reverend W. C. Gannett, F. A. Blake, A. S. Crapsey, Henry Morley and J. J. Summerbell; "What Liberal Religion Has Done for America" by Edwin D. Mead of Boston; "The Bible in Modern Life" by Rabbi David Philipson of Cincinnati; "The Church in Modern Life" by the Rev. Frank O. Hall of New York; "Jesus Christ in Modern Life" by Prof. George B. Foster of the University of Chicago.
Among the speakers at the congress will be also Prof. Dr. Francis L. Patton of Harvard University; former Governor Curtis Guild of Massachusetts; President F. W. Hamilton of Tufts College; Alexander Johnson, secretary of the National Conference of Churches; Mrs. Frederick Nathan, president of the Consumers' League; Mrs. Anna Garlin Spencer of New York; John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers; Justice P. J. Swayne of the Supreme Court of New Jersey; Willard J. Dean of Indiana; Dr. Wm. E. Hall of Swarthmore College; the Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York and the Rev. John Lloyd Jones of Chicago.
The closing session on Friday evening will be devoted to a symposium on the "Fellowship of the Spirit," introduced by the Rev. Charles G. Ames of Boston, in which the speakers will unofficially represent twelve different religious denominations.

HURLEY COURT IS STILL DISCUSSED

What Will Be Done As Regards This Problem Remains To Be Solved.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 27.—What is to be done with the municipal court at Hurley is still a problem in the minds of the members of the senate judiciary committee. Early in the session the senate took up the trouble of submitting evidence to the legislature regarding the municipal court of that city, it was decided to introduce a bill to abolish the court altogether.
But even this plan has its evils. After giving Sheriff McNeenan, who claims to be making a fight for a cleaner city, a hearing, Judge Griff Thomas, against whom the senate judiciary committee is leveled, was given an opportunity to be heard, and it soon developed that a court in that city was necessary.
Senator Barnum has asked the attorney general for an opinion regarding the passage of a law to allow the governor to remove municipal judges just as district attorneys are deposed today. It was thought that this would put the judges on good behavior, but it has been discovered that the constitution expressly says that judges shall be impeached. No opinion has yet been rendered, but it is probable that the governor's removal route will not be favored. There is some talk here that the governor may still send to the legislature the evidence in the case, in which Thomas was charged in removing and acquitting and allow the house to prefer charges against it, as it desires.
Senator Barnum, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, is puzzled over the problem and its possible solution, to say the least.

HIGHER TAXES A PROBABILITY NOW

STATE TREASURER ESTIMATES THERE WILL BE SHORTAGE.

EXPENSES ARE INCREASING

This Will Mean Higher Per Capita Rates Unless Other Means Are Found.
Madison, Wis., April 27.—There is a possibility of a $4,000,000 state tax this year, or an additional burden upon the taxpayers of the state of $250 for every $1,000 of property, locally assessed. There is also a further possibility that the funds of the state may be exhausted before the tax-paying period and institutional employees and contracts may be held up, if some means of borrowing money cannot be found.
Both suppositions are based upon what action the legislature will take at this session regarding appropriations. Since Treasurer A. J. Dahl views the situation with trepidation and upon request from Senator George H. Hudnall sent him a communication yesterday explaining the condition of the state's finances during the past few years.
"The disbursements have greatly exceeded the revenues of the state the past three years," says State Treasurer Dahl. "The balance on hand in all funds Jan. 1, 1907, was $2,064,420.59; on Jan. 1, 1908, $2,871,114.11, and on Jan. 1, 1909, $742,591.11. It will be seen that the balance on hand on Jan. 1, 1909, was $1,118,819.45 less than on Jan. 1, 1907, and the balance on Jan. 1, 1909 was $1,222,029.63 less than on Jan. 1, 1907. The balance in the treasury today in all funds is $1,674,252.55; the balance on the same date last year was $2,268,383.31, or $594,130.76 more than this year for the same date.
"The receipts in 1908 from May 1 to Jan. 1, 1909 were $4,733,084.18 and the disbursements for the same period were $5,979,522.52; the disbursements were $1,246,438.34 in excess of the revenues for the eight months. But we had $2,268,383.31 in the treasury on April 21, 1908 and this left a balance on hand on Jan. 1, 1909, of $247,291. This year we have $1,118,819.45 less on hand on April 24; if receipts and disbursements will be the same this year as last, the balance on Jan. 1, 1910 will be only $167,745.61. Taxes will not be collected before February 10, when the treasury will be replenished. The receipts for the month of January, 1909, were $335,451.21, while the disbursements for the same month were $581,195.36, or $245,744.15 in excess of receipts. As the balance on January 1, 1910 will be only $167,745.61 and the disbursements will be $245,744.15 in excess of receipts, there will be a shortage of $77,998.54 on February 1, next in all funds in the treasury.
"These figures are based on receipts and disbursements for 1908, but the expenditures will be vastly greater this year in some departments. This is legislative year and the expenditure of the publication of the "Blue Book" of about $24,000, publishing general laws of about $55,000 and other printing bills connected with the work of the legislature will add materially to these amounts. The capital commission will expend from $200,000 to $450,000 more during this period than was expended last year. The expenses of conducting the normal school from Sept. 1 to Feb. 1 will add another $25,000 to the disbursements. With these added expenditures over last year we may have a shortage on Feb. 1 next of $500,000 or more.
"Expenses are continually increasing and instead of increasing the revenues to meet the increasing expenditures, we find several bills now before the legislature, which if enacted into law would materially reduce our sources of income. A bill to allow counties to deduct 25 per cent for collecting inheritance taxes instead of five per cent as the law now provides, to reduce the taxes of life insurance companies by approximately $350,000 per annum, a bill to distribute a part of the railroad tax to the counties, are samples of bills in the legislature that have the way for a state tax of about 2.5 mills of local assessments.
"Tax payers are now burdened with heavy school and local taxes. What would be the result if a state tax of this amount were added?
"I wish to call attention to these facts, trusting this may in some degree assist the legislature in its deliberations regarding all increases in appropriations and the cutting down of the revenues of the state."

Convicted Chicago Real Estate Man Says Others Knew Of His Forgeries.
Chicago, April 27.—Peter Van Vliet, a leading real estate man of Chicago for twenty years, whose confession last winter of forgery of mortgages to the extent of a million caused a great sensation and exploded a dud-bomb in the bankruptcy court here today when he stated his confession of months ago was antedated by four years by a confession made privately to Maurice Rosenfeld and Bernard Rosenberg, that mortgages held by them and valued at four hundred thousand dollars had been forged.
"They discovered some irregularities," he said, "and I promised to pay them a thousand to five thousand dollars a week. Altogether I paid them approximately two hundred and fifty thousand dollars." Rosenfeld and Rosenberg are prominent real estate dealers in Chicago.

Dr. F. G. Fielding of this city, famous throughout the United States as a successful aerial navigator in a private plane, and one of the Texas balloons, are so much interested in scientists, are so much interested in the San Antonio's invention that they have associated themselves with him financially, and it is the intention of the organization to have a perfect machine in readiness to make flights during the coming International Exposition here.
Experiments which have already been made with models of the machine have proved to the entire satisfaction of the inventor the success of the mechanical principles which he has employed. His machine, about which he does not care at this time to give out much detailed information, differs radically from all others which have thus far been exploited. It is one whereby his propellers are so arranged that the machine needs no track or long distance run in order to make a flying start. It can also alight on or rise from the water without trouble, and by an automatic arrangement balances itself while in the air without assistance from the navigator. It will be equipped with two thirty-horsepower engines, either of which will be sufficient to run the machine alone. An equipment of four parachutes will be carried, which in case of accident, will open and land the ship without disaster to it or its occupants. The machine can be constructed in anything from a sporting size to a military or commercial proposition.

SUNDAY BASEBALL MAY BE LEGALIZED

Measure to Place Sport as One of the Exempt Sunday Pleasures.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 28.—To legalize Sunday baseball, after the manner adopted by the legislature of Minnesota, is the object of a well organized and aggressive movement centering upon the legislature of Wisconsin.
The proposal is to amend the statute of prohibition of activities on the Sabbath so as to include in the list of excepted activities the playing of the national game on Sunday. While the particular bill proposed is as yet undrawn, the forces suggested as most reasonable and likely to secure the greatest support by the lawmakers are similar to those of the Minnesota law, which provides that the game of baseball, when decently and orderly conducted, may be held between certain prescribed hours of Sunday afternoon. It is proposed to have the law drawn so that no possible interference can be had with ordinary and usual church services, but will allow indulgence in the recreative game of baseball in the hours of Sunday afternoon usually devoted to purposes of recreation. It is said that practically the entire Roman Catholic clergy of the state are in favor of such a law, many of them openly declaring that legalized baseball on Sundays will exert no bad influence. Rev. Father P. B. Knox of St. Patrick's church of Madison declares that baseball on Sunday afternoons will become the greatest rival to the Sunday school, for young, impressionable men will attend a baseball game before they will spend the time in schools and drinking places. John Moran, a prominent Madison attorney, president of the Madison baseball association of the Wisconsin-Illinois league, is a leader in the movement and he declares that the law has already received substantial support from members of the legislature.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE

TILL'S TREATMENT OF HIS PATIENTS

HOW ALMENA PLASTER DOCTOR CARES FOR JANESVILLE PEOPLE.

ALL RECEIVE PLASTERS

Method of Care for the Different Cases is Exactly The Same in All Cases.

Just at present John Till, the Almema plaster doctor, is the subject of much discussion in both the medical circles and by his thousands of patients who have visited him. Just who he is himself or what his great powers are remains a secret. Despite the fact that much has been said and written relative to this strange man, nothing really definite has become known of him.

On the witness stand Dr. Till recently testified that his famous plasters were made of tallow cleanstantly begins calling those to go in to the inside office.

Twenty to thirty at a time crowd into this room, where stands Till and his assistants. First the patient pulls up his shirt and sits down on a low stool. Dr. Till then walks behind him, touches him lightly behind his ears and then places both hands over his hips. He immediately tells what the disease is and what treatment is to be made from the plaster is necessary.

Then comes an assistant with a rag or sponge and the back is washed. Next is the man with the plaster, ointment and cotton. One good swab on the place washed and the cotton is slipped on. The next assistant pulls down the shirt and sees the cotton onto the cloth and the patient is through and they are ready for another.

There is no regular fee for this treatment but the patient either hands Dr. Till or one of his assistants a dollar. The talk of there being a collection box appears wrong. Till or his assistant collects the fees given and no price is named except that of the secretary for registry which is twenty-five cents.

There is a room for men and a room for women in the big building.

illum, the pharmaceutical name being croton oil. When desired in liquid form for an ointment, olive oil or linseed oil is substituted. Another ointment he uses he said was composed of a composition of alcohol, fish oil and ammonia.

Dr. Till went further into the mysteries of his craft by stating that he was not a doctor, but a blacksmith, and that he had not gained his knowledge from any doctor of printed medical books but that he based his diagnosis upon his feeling of the nerves from the afflicted parts of the body where they pass through the spinal cord at the back of the neck. That this ability had been born in him.

This gift he claimed was natural to him and he thought no one else had the same power. His early teachings came from another blacksmith who treated him when a youth.

Till treats both sexes. His day begins at seven-thirty and it ends at eleven at night. He is always barefooted and wears but pants and suspenders over his shirt. He wears no hat and his face is marked with small-box pits. He is smooth-shaven and has piercing eyes, a keen face, and a determined chin.

On the twenty-fifth of the present month he left for his annual trip to his old home in Austria, leaving his office and work in the hands of his assistants. It is safe to estimate that between three and four hundred persons are treated each day and on some days more. They come from all parts of the country and it is reported that many would back substantial checks if they feel they have any benefit from the plasters.

About his offices several stands have sprung up, small dining halls

In Austria. This was the digest of Dr. Till's explanation of his wonderful powers, his famous plasters, and the work he is doing up in the woods near Almema.

Almema is situated on the Soo road and Till's office and home are a mile and a half from the village. Turtle Lake, on the Omaha branch of the North-Western road, is the other station adjacent, and from these two villages hundreds of pilgrims seeking aid start each morning for the scene of Till's home.

Those that patronize the North-Western road, and the majority from Janesville and the immediate vicinity who have visited him go by this route, stop at Turtle Lake, in order to reach Till's place in time for the treatment they must stay over night here and the description of the accommodations in this village are most graphic and closely resemble early pioneer days.

An early start must be made to reach Till's home in time to secure a number. Threeseated surreys, no rubber-tired wheels, and the roughest kind of a road, make the trip anything but pleasant. It costs a dollar for the trip over and back and many of the patients suffer more from this journey than they have from their other ailments.

Till's registry office and office hours begin at seven-thirty. First the applicant pays a quarter and receives a number at a little ticket window in the rear of Till's office building. A nephew of Till's collects this toll.

On the other side of the building is the office entrance. Here the waiting crowds stand until their respective numbers are called out. Twenty to thirty at a time are admitted to the outer office and then one of Till's as-where the pilgrims can secure food while waiting. They do a flourishing business and men and women both wait in crowds near the door for their turn.

numbers to be called. Sometimes the wait is long; sometimes it is short, and the time for treatment is always short.

Till has a rival now—a rival who has established an office almost across the road from him. His sister, who was his assistant for many years, evidently thought she wanted some of the spots and on March 23 she opened her plaster hospital with a good attendance that has grown to a hundred and twenty a day. With Till away she will probably do much better than she has and already many of Till's patients are going to her. Janesville and Rock county has sent its quota to the plaster doctor and many have made two, three, and even four and five trips. The treatment has been the same for all, the plaster and advice. Some have claimed to receive much benefit and others have received none. One man, it is claimed, died, perhaps indirectly from poison which set in after a treatment, while others are doing their customary work. The majority are convinced that Till is a wonderful man.

The above description of Till and his treatment was obtained from one of his patients who yielded him more out of curiosity than anything else, but who now believes in the powers of the plasters. The two pictures were furnished from this same source.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERNATIONAL HOLDS REMARKABLE MEETING.

Senator Elihu Root at top, Justice H. B. Brown, recently retired from the United States supreme court, and the French ambassador, Mr. J. J. Jusserand.

Washington, D. C.—Under the auspices of the American Society for which meets in Washington this week many notable addresses will be given. Among the most notable will be those of the French ambassador, Mr. J. J. Jusserand, who has made a life study of international law, and former Justice H. B. Brown, who recently retired from the United States supreme court.

The topic to be discussed is "Relations Between Countries of the World" Senator Elihu Root will preside. President Taft is one of the vice presidents. An elaborate banquet is being prepared for the guests.

Guarding Against Earthquakes. All great crises have stimulated the creative faculty of mankind, and earthquakes have, of course, earned a full share of attention. The most original notion in this connection was put forth by a genius who quite satisfied himself that if houses were provided with wheels or rollers they would move about backwards and forwards during an earthquake and escape disaster.

CUT GLASS SHOWER FOR MISS MADOUSE

Mrs. Edward Hemming Entertained for Young Lady Whose Wedding Occurs Tomorrow in Chicago.

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Edward Hemming entertained sixteen young ladies at a party given at her home at 212 Center street. The event was in honor of Miss Madouse whose marriage to George Humann occurs tomorrow in Chicago. The affair was a shower, the ladies presenting Miss Madouse with a beautiful cut glass cream pitcher and sugar bowl. As appropriate to the occasion, heartily was the game played, Miss Elizabeth Joyce capturing first prize and Miss Rose Burns, drawing the lucky number. The playing was followed by a dainty luncheon.

The rooms were very prettily decorated for the occasion, red being the prevailing hue, in gay festoons and other adornments. An additional feature was secured by the use of small red cardboard hearts tastefully arranged.

Talk No. 1.

By Brittingham & Hixon Lumber Co.

Keep The Business In Janesville.

The Brittingham & Hixon Lumber Company have prepared a series of announcements to inform the public in regard to lumber and other building materials in general, to state the existing condition of the trade, with the purpose of holding the business in Janesville that rightly belongs here.

Its method will be price—if we cannot quote as low a price as any other firm in the world, based upon equal quality of goods—we cannot expect the business. In addition we will give better service than any other lumber firm in the Northwest. Remember, we are right here in Janesville, within convenient reach at all times to adjust any little difficulties that may arise.

Give us an opportunity to figure on your next order. We know of scores of lumber and building material bills that have been sold in Janesville and vicinity by outside concerns, that we would have been glad to have furnished at a lower price.

GAVE FRANCHISE TO INTERURBAN

COUNCIL PASSED THE GRANT BY UNANIMOUS VOTE.

MAYOR NAMED DR. ST. JOHN

As Member of Board of Fire and Police Commissioners at Adjourned Meeting This Forenoon.

With an amendment regarding the route which was satisfactory to all parties concerned, the common council granted the Cincinnati Construction Co.'s petition for an interurban franchise by unanimous vote last evening. As altered, the measure provides that the tracks shall be laid on North Main street from the center of Milwaukee street northerly to Sheldon street; thence northerly across Hyatt street and Walker street, and adjoining Fulton road to the city limits; and along, on, over, and across such streets, alleys, ways, and avenues as may from time to time be agreed upon by the common council and the Cincinnati Construction Co. or its successors and assigns. The company has 60 days in which to file its acceptance and work must actually begin within 18 months. Thirty days prior to the commencement of construction work the company must file a bond of $5,000 as a guarantee that the streets will be restored to their original condition. The measure was discussed by the City Fathers, pro and con, during a lengthy recess and there were no arguments by the adherents in open session. However, when the question of adoption had been put, and remarks were called for, Fred M. Marzluft, who was one of the spectators, called attention to the fact that no provision had been made for a speed limit or for certain needed equipment of the cars. In reply to this suggestion, Attorney George G. Sutherland stated that all such matters were now regulated by the railroad commission and for that reason it had not been deemed necessary to provide for them in the franchise. Mayor Carlo declared that it was a public question and that attention should be given to anyone else who wished to be heard, but no other suggestions were offered.

Permit for Runway
Chairman Sheridan of the committee on highways, to which had been referred the petition of the Wisconsin Carriage Co. for permission to build a runway over West Milwaukee street to connect with a proposed new building on the south side of that thoroughfare, declared that the plan had been approved by his committee and at its instance moved that the petition be granted. Alderman Clark moved to amend by inserting a provision to the effect that the runway be constructed in a manner satisfactory to the street assessment committee. The amendment was accepted and the motion as amended was carried by a vote of 6 to 3. Alderman Sheridan, Richardson, and Helford dissenting.

Police Paid in Full
The finance committee's report on bills was adopted and on motion of Chairman Brown the salary list, which included items of $480 due partly as back pay to Chief of Police George M. Appleby and $30 due Officer Sam Brown for services from March 3 to April 17, 1908, was likewise passed without comment or dissenting vote. The city clerk was directed to draw on the treasurer in the sum of $515.55, payable from the general fund to B. P. Crossman, the amount being the ten per cent withheld on the construction of cement sidewalks during the season of 1907, as per contract with the city.

No License for Triclot
Ald. Kimball, who acted as chairman of the judiciary committee in the absence of Ald. Dunn, reported that the bonds filed by Health Officer C. V. Korch, School Commissioner-elect John H. Watson, and the five assessors, as well as the plumbers' bonds submitted by Fred E. Green, McVicar Bros., and George & Clements, had been found in due form and were good, and moved their acceptance. The motion was carried. Chairman Evans of the license committee reported unfavorably on Charles Triclot's application, which was accompanied by a proper bond and fractional license fee of $37.50, for a permit to conduct a bar at the Ray Tidwell stand, 14 N. Academy street, for the balance of the "saloon year." The application was laid on the table by unanimous vote.

Pathos from Junk Men
Further time was granted the license committee for the consideration of a very pathetic communication from six junk-dealers asking that the present license fee of $25 be reduced to $10. "We do not need to tell you that the times are very hard," was the burden of their song. "If there was any other business for us we would quit entirely. As we understand it, the city doesn't need or want the money but merely seeks to keep us regulated. Are not the $500 bonds we furnish a sufficient guarantee? The law is now evaded by some who cannot pay the license fee. If it were only $10 every peddler could afford to buy one and still have enough pennies for tomorrow's bread."

To Improve High Street
J. P. Baker, E. W. Lowell, F. L. Stevens, and other residents filed a petition asking that North High street, from the north side of Race street to the easterly side of Madison street, be improved by grading, macadamizing gutters, and curbing. A resolution providing for the work and the assessment of benefits and damages to the abutting property was introduced and passed. Plans and specifications for sewer construction work to be done in Districts 10, 11, and 14, were submitted by the city engineer and adopted on motion of Chairman Buchholz of the committee on sewers. The report of the assistant street commissioner on new walks needed was adopted and the street commissioner was directed to see to it that the same are constructed.

When Grades Don't "Hitch"
Hereafter, whenever the lines and grades for new walks, as prepared by the city engineer, fail to correspond with those of walks already laid, the street assessment committee and the aldermen of the ward are to sit in judgment and their action shall be final. An order embodying these provisions was introduced by Ald. Evans and passed without opposition.

Repairs at Old Washout
The street assessment committee was directed by an order to have cement walks built over the lowly culvert section of Washington street and Linden avenue that was destroyed by the washout of 1904 and a cement curb placed in the same localities. Owners of property on the east side of South Center street, from Pleasant to Newark streets, were granted permission to build four-foot walks. Harry Jago was granted permission to move a building from South High and Lincoln streets to lot 11, block 6, of the Pleasant View addition.

Other Improvements
The sidewalk line for the east side of High street from Race to Rayline street was established with the inner margin of the walk one and three-tenths foot from the property line. The curb line on Maple Court was established at a distance of 12 feet from the property line for future consideration. Directions were given to the city engineer to file a grade for Maple Court and a sidewalk grade for the east side of Oak Hill avenue, from Highland to Linden avenue. The street commissioner was ordered to build brick crosswalks on the north side of Fourth avenue across Main street, on Center street on the west side of S. Pearl, across Chatham st. on the south side of W. Bluff, and across the alley between Pleasant and W. Bluff sts. on each side of Chatham street; and repair North Hickory street and N. Bluff st. north of the viaduct.

Terms of New Officers
Ald. Evans introduced an order providing that the terms of the new officers elected by the new council at its first meeting should begin on the first of May following their election, looking thereby to establish a precedent. There was some discussion and City Attorney Maxfield stated that though this measure would establish a precedent it would not be binding as the charter provides that a public servant's term of office may begin as soon as his bonds have been approved. Whereupon Mayor Carlo declared the measure out of order. It is probable, however, that several of the officers will not assume their duties until the last of this week.

The New Commissioners
The law governing the appointments of members of the fire and police commission stipulates that they shall be named after the last Monday in April and before the first Monday in May. Mayor Carlo having signified an intention of choosing the successor of John F. Sweeney today, the council adjourned to meet at 11:15 this morning. Dr. J. W. St. John was named by his honor and the appointment was ratified by unanimous vote. In making the motion to confirm the appointment Alderman Buchholz said: "I congratulate the Mayor on his appointment. It will be more universal than any other he could possibly have made."

On motion of Ald. Richardson the police committee was authorized to have the patrol wagon painted or retouched so as to put it in first class condition.

sider that he has had his revenge in just making the accusations and letting it go at that. I don't want to talk about him. What I would say wouldn't look well in print. I befriended him when he was in trouble and he has turned, that's all. He knows there isn't a shred of truth in his charges, but he hopes to blast my brother's reputation by making them. "It will be noted that Willey's record during his long service with the United States government in China, the place out the time when everything was in confusion through the Boxer troubles. He hasn't anything to say about his long service as charge d'affaires at Peking. He prefers to select a period when nothing can be proved nor disproved. "The only animus I can imagine he has is that since my brother became consul-general and before Willey had resigned as extra-territorial judge, the latter caused the arrest of two Chinamen in violation of treaty provisions. My brother refused to hold them and Willey evidently got the idea he had it in for him."

Word came from Washington that when Willey first made his charges before Roosevelt he only wanted to head off Denby from becoming United States minister to China. The president insisted that he put his accusations into writing, sternly informing him that as a United States official he should back up what he said.

Peculiar Form of Graft.

Edwin F. Marvin, conductor of the national division of the Sons of Temperance, was discussing in Bridgeport, Conn., a flagrant piece of bribery. "Bribery, like a worm in fruit," he said, "spoils all it enters. And what won't it enter? A temperance society in the middle west once had a splendid lecturer, a reformed drunkard. This lecturer, after a year or so, was discharged. An auditor asked why he had been released, and the society's president answered: 'Don't you remember how he continually referred to the irresistible seductions of a certain brand of beer, attributing his downfall to it? Well, it turns out that the brewer paid him a quarter for every time he rang in the beer's name.'"

"OBEY THE LAW"

In another part of the paper will be found a copy of both the state and city bond, which all saloon-keepers sign when a license is granted, and the letter which follows is a personal letter sent out by the mayor today to every saloon-keeper in the city.

The letter is temperate in tone, and Mayor Cary says that his object is to call the saloon men's attention to the fact of contract under which they are doing business as it is quite possible to overlook conditions on a contract which is seldom referred to.

A careful reading of the bond will surprise many people, as it prohibits some practices which have come to be obnoxious. The state bond provides that no gambling devices shall be tolerated, and that intoxicating liquors shall not be sold or given away to minors nor to persons intoxicated or bordering on intoxication. And the city bond provides for the observance of municipal regulation, such as Sunday laws or any other which the city may establish.

The mayor proposes to be perfectly fair with the saloon men, but expects them to understand the conditions under which licenses are granted, and then to observe the law, the same as all other classes of business.

There are two or three things that ought to be done in the interests of the city. In the first place the number of licenses should be cut down to one saloon for every 500 inhabitants, the same as in many other cities. There are so many saloons today that some of them find it difficult to live within the limits of the law.

Then there are some localities where licenses should not be granted. Every city has its whitelight district, and Janesville is no exception to the rule. The mayor recognizes these facts, and efforts which may be made to remedy them will meet with public approval.

IMMIGRATION AND MIGRATION

The tide of immigration has been so strong during the past decade that the loss of population by migration has hardly been given a thought, and yet statistics show that nearly half a million American farmers and investors have gone to the Canadian northwest, in the last half dozen years to permanently locate in the dominion.

These people differ from many of the foreign immigrants who come to this country to better their condition, as they represent a class of enterprising American citizens with money. The exodus is well described in the May Century as follows:

"If half a million American settlers should suddenly pull up roots and migrate in a body to some foreign land the event would be heralded as one of the most epoch movements of the century. Yet that is virtually what has happened, with little notice and less comment, in the last six years.

"In less than six years 388,000 American farmers have pulled up stakes in their native states and moved from Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Arkansas and Oregon, across the inviolable line of the international boundary to free homesteads in the Canadian northwest. Moreover, 100,000 Americans have gone north as investors, speculators, miners, lumbermen.

"A railroad traffic manager and a customs officer both told me the same thing; very few of the American homesteaders came in with less than $1,000 cash; many came in with capital ranging from $3,000 to $10,000. The capital brought in by the investing classes varies from the $10,000,000 placed by the Morgan banking house in the Canadian Northern railway to the $200,000 and $300,000 capital placed in actual cash by the land and lumber and fish companies.

"Average the American new-comer's capital at $2,000, and the American invasion of Canada in the last six years represents in hard cash an investment of a billion dollars. From what I saw in a leisurely four months' tour of Canada—first by canoe, 1,500 miles among the settlers of the frontier beyond the railroad, then by rail twice across the continent—I have no hesitation in saying that a billion dollar average is too small by half."

"The Canadian Pacific railroad owns large tracts of land in what is known as the Alberta country, and the company has spent $7,000,000 on irrigating plants, and other improvements to attract settlers. One tract of 3,000,000 acres, along the line of this road, is rapidly being taken up by American farmers for it is in the heart of the great wheat belt, and already as famous as the Red River valley. Homestead land in both America and Canada will soon be a thing of the past.

ANOTHER WORLD'S FAIR
Taking time by the forelock, the good people of Boston have discovered that the year 1920 will represent the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrim fathers, and prompted by a feeling of gratitude have taken the initial steps for promoting a national exposition which shall be in keeping with the nation's birthday.

It is fortunate for the people, as well as for the success of the enterprise, that the date of the proposed celebration is so far away as to excite no opposition, for the feeling prevails to large extent that the country has had a surfeit of world's fairs. The St. Louis episode is still fresh in the public mind, and the coast exposition is clamoring for recognition.

The American people, however, are under lasting obligations to the Pilgrim fathers for landing on American soil and making it possible for the accident of birth to create a nation of free and independent citizens.

The Boston Herald claims the honor of the first announcement of this world's exposition, and the press at "The Hub" will find it a fruitful topic for many years to come.

Don't forget the date, 1920, but don't buy a ticket yet for the chances are that aerial navigation will be in full swing long before that time, and unless some enterprising citizen succeeds in cornering the atmosphere transportation will be cheap.

Rooms may be reserved at any Boston hotel at any time after 1915, and arrangements will be made with Mrs. Childs to move some of her New York restaurants over to aid in feeding the people. Prospective visitors are invited to correspond with any of the Boston papers.

UTILIZING A VOLCANO
"Peter Lee, an American, has a ranch right on the edge of the great crater of Kilauea, on the island of Hawaii, about 200 miles from Honolulu. All about the tremendous cauldron of nature spreads dense forests for many miles down the easy slope of the mountain's sides.

"Very much of this tangle of vegetation is made up of great tree ferns, many of which tower fifty feet or more in the air, like great feather dusters. The great trunk or stem of this fern, frequently a foot or more in diameter, is composed of a pulpy fibrous mass on closed in a hairy harder covering. Peter Lee discovered that this pulp contains a large amount of starches and sugars, and that by steaming or cooking, these are rendered soft, and are greedily eaten by the hogs.

"It was some time before the present method of cooking the ferns suggested itself, but when it did the problem of economy was solved. In many places about the volcano, sometimes several miles from the active central pit, cracks have formed in the hardened lava surface which covers the whole mountain, doubtless through the contraction of the material in cooling, and from these fissures heat and steam in various degrees of intensity perpetually escape. To construct a gridiron over one of these heat cracks, and to pile upon it the fern trunks, cut into cord-wood lengths, was the acme of simplicity, but for effectiveness could scarcely be improved upon. In the course of a few days, dependent on the amount of heat of any particular crack, the steam has thoroughly softened and cooked the ferns, and all that remains to do is to split each stem with an ax, when the white will devour them voraciously.

"What's the use of having a volcano on the farm if you can't use it? This is what Mr. Lee thought and so up appropriated nature's furnace for a steam cooker. Mr. Cooper, who furnished this novel sketch, does not say whether all of the Hawaiian farms are as well equipped.

The merry widow hat and inverted basket, loaded down with fruits and plumage, measures from 60 to 70 inches in circumference, weighs from two to five pounds, and when spiked to the head, is said to be the most comfortable piece of headgear ever invented. With a gilet-headed shoe and Mother Hubbard costume the American woman of today resembles a sunflower in everything but beauty.

In spite of the demands of businessmen from all parts of the country, for a speedy settlement of the tariff question, the senate is wasting time on oratory, and the chances are that it will be midsummer before the bill is ready to go to the president. In the meantime business will continue to suffer from uncertainty.

Heart to Heart Talks.

GERONIMO, APACHE CHIEF.

The last of the "bad Indians" is dead.

Gerontimo, one of the most notable of American savages, chief of the cruel and bloodthirsty Apaches, died recently at Fort Sill, a prisoner of the white man.

Gerontimo gave the frontier army the most serious task it ever undertook.

After years of campaigning against the able and wily chief it finally became necessary to permit the American troops to cross the border into Mexico and to penetrate into the fastnesses of the Sonora mountains to effect his capture.

In the pursuit of Gerontimo both General Miles and General Lawton made their reputations as Indian fighters. It is no treason to say that in native ability Gerontimo was the greatest tactician of the trio.

The old chief was in captivity for more than twenty years.

It is said he "professed religion" a year or so before he died. However, that may be, it is safe to say his eagle heart constantly brooded over the hope that he might somehow escape to liberty and his native mountains of Arizona.

Like many of his race, Gerontimo was eloquent in speech. Years ago, pointing to the west, he said:

"The sun rises and shines for a time, and then it goes down, sinking out of sight, and is lost. So with the Indians. When I was a boy my father told me that the Indians were as many as the leaves on the trees. I never saw them. The white man took them. In a few years more the Indian will be heard of no more, except in the books the white man writes."

"A prophecy that is pathetically being fulfilled.

Where has been told in poem or prose or drama or music the story of the American aborigine and his true character?

On the one hand is the dictum of the Indian slayer of the plains that "the only good Indian is a dead Indian," on the other the fanciful creations of the Cooper school of writers.

The flower of that race is worthy of a high and permanent place in American history and fiction and poetry.

A great capacity for friendship, a rude but strong sense of justice, a deathless love of liberty, a belief in immortality, martyr stoicism—these are rare and tremendous traits.

Mrs. Jack Johnson, wife of the heavyweight boxing champion, has attracted more attention than has fallen to the lot of any boxer's wife in recent years. Although married to the big colored sponger for two and one-half years the comparative obscurity in which they lived caused her to attract little attention until her husband won the title. Then when the news was called from Australia that Johnson's wife was white, due to the reporters being misled by her extremely light color, she became an international figure at once. Her name was originally, Battle Smith and she was born near Biloxi, in Mississippi, 26 years ago. She is of a dark olive tint and could readily pass for a white woman, but admits a strain of color.

XVI.—Farm Buildings

By C. V. GREGORY,

Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association

THE kind of buildings needed on the farm, their arrangement and location and the kind of material to make them of are problems that often perplex the farmer who is just starting out to improve his place. No attempt will be made here to give any specific plans, since the buildings must be constructed to meet the varying requirements of different farms and the still more varying ideas of the owners. A few suggestions, however, may help to solve some of the most troublesome building problems.

Aside from the house, which will be considered in the next article, the most important farm building is the barn. This is usually built as a shelter for the cows, horses and young calves and to provide a storage place for hay. The barn should not be located near enough to the house so that the odor will be objectionable nor too far away, as this makes too many extra steps. About 500 feet is a good distance, if the yards and manure piles are on the side away from the house, as they should be.

The basement type of barn, though in use to some extent, is not very popular, even on farms where it can be easily built. The lower part is damp and dark, and it is difficult to secure proper drainage. These disadvantages make it desirable to construct the barn entirely above ground on a solid foundation. On many farms there are plenty of "hogholes," which can be used as foundation material. The floor should be of cement throughout. The cost is but little more than that of a wooden floor, and it will last several times as long. A cement floor is cold and for this reason should be kept well bedded. If this is done there can be little objection to this kind of a floor, even for horses, although some horse owners prefer to cover the cement with a false floor of plank.

The remainder of the barn may be built of several different materials, of which wood, in spite of its advancing price, is still the cheapest and most convenient. Next in order come cement blocks and tile brick. When lasting qualities are taken into consideration these are even preferable to wood. A good shingle roof is very satisfactory, though one of the many kinds of prepared roofing may be substituted at a saving in cost and will probably last just as long. In form the hip roof is the best, as it costs but little more and adds considerably to the capacity of the haymow. The plan of having the hay come down to the ground in the center of the barn is not economical of space and is liable to cause the barn to spread. It is better to obtain the extra hay room needed by making the sides a little higher.

A small room in the barn which can be used as a workshop for repairing tools, harness and doing other "rainy day jobs" will be found very handy.

It is always best to have the stock face to the outside. This gives them better light and ventilation and keeps the stable walls from getting splattered with manure. If the barn is located on a knoll where water from surrounding ground cannot flow down around it and provision is made for carrying away the water from the roof, little further drainage will be needed. It is wasteful to allow the liquid manure to drain away and be lost, and it causes unnecessary work to drain it into a manure pit and haul it to the place where it is needed in a water tight wagon. A much better plan is to use bedding enough to absorb it all. There will always be plenty of this at hand in the form of straw, shredded fodder and spoiled hay. By this plan all the fertilizing value of the liquid manure will be saved with a small amount of work.

A litter carrier or a wheelbarrow is a great help in cleaning out the stables. When a litter carrier is used the manure spreader may be left standing in the yard and filled direct from the carrier. Whenever it gets full the manure may be hauled out and spread where it is most needed. In this way it reaches the fields with a small amount of loss.

A point that should be looked after in the construction of the barn, and one that is too often neglected, is provision for sufficient light. Not only does plenty of light make the barn a more convenient place to work, but it also keeps the stock healthier by discouraging the growth of bacteria. The horse stable especially should be well lighted, since horses are liable to have their sight injured by being kept in a dark barn.

Along with light should come plenty of ventilation. By having the windows swing inward from the top and providing triangular boards to close the openings at the sides the incoming current of fresh air will be directed upward against the ceiling and distributed over the stable without causing a draft.

Cupolas may be placed on the roof to carry off the impure air. A cheaper method is to leave some of the rafters unboxed at the lower ends.

In case there are many dairy cows or young animals to be fed a silo is almost a necessity. It should be located at the end of the barn nearest the cow stable in order to lessen the work of feeding. By having the yard for the young cattle close to the silo they can be fed from it with little extra work.

A silo sixteen feet in diameter and thirty feet high is about the right size for a 100 acre farm. The diameter should always be small enough so that two or three inches can be fed off the top each day. This insures fresh silage all the time. The greater number of silos in use at present are made of wooden staves. These are cheap, and if a good quality of wood is used they will last a long time. Cement and brick silos are practically indestructible, but are rather expensive. A new type of silo that is proving very satisfactory is made of hollow building tile. This material is as cheap as staves and lasts as long as cement.

For the young stock, fattening cattle and sheep cheap sheds furnish ample shelter. These can be made of common boards well battened, with strong cedar posts for a framework. The roof should be water tight. A twelve foot opening on the south will answer the purpose of a door.

These sheds should be on high, well drained ground and must be kept well bedded. When this is done they are fully as good as a more expensive shelter. A separate lambing house will, of course, have to be provided for the ewes as spring approaches.

For the man who is making a specialty of hogs the "colony system" of hog houses is probably the best. For the average farmer, however, the extra amount of work which this system involves more than outweighs its advantages of cleanliness, freedom from disease and keeping the hogs in smaller bunches. On most farms the central hog house comes nearest to meeting the requirements. Along with it a few individual houses are convenient for hailing around to the stables and clover fields or other places where the hogs may happen to be located.

Little pigs need a great deal of sunlight, and this, together with the liability of hogs to become diseased, makes it imperative that the hog house be provided with plenty of windows. By running it north and south and having a row of pens on each side each pen will receive an equal amount of sunshine. Where the building faces the south the north row of pens does not receive its share of sunlight, and the outside yards on the north of the house are almost always shaded and cold.

The floor, like that of the barn, should be of cement. It is a good plan to extend it out about twenty feet on each side to make feeding floors where the hogs can be fed and watered without getting in the mud. By having all pen and yard partitions movable they can be arranged for sows and litters or for fattening swine, as needed. A feed room in one end of the building where grain can be stored and feed mixed up is a great convenience.

A corncrib should be located close to one end of the feeding floors, so as to save work when hogs are fattening. If steers are fed another crib should be built with one end next to a string of feed bunks, so that the feeder can walk right out into them with the corn when feeding. A double crib with a bin for oats on one side should be placed near the barn. In the winter the driveway may be used for grinding feed.

A good weather proof machine shed should be built on every farm. It may be located almost any place where it will be out of the way. There should be a row of wide doors all along one side so that it will be possible to take an implement out or in without moving everything else in the shed.

All wooden buildings should be kept well painted. Painted wood will last three times as long as that not so treated, to say nothing of the gain in looks.

A little attention to some of these points in locating and arranging the buildings and yards will cut the work of doing chores in half.

WHY YOUR FEET ACHE. It is an absolute fact that most foot trouble is caused by overwork or strain on the muscles and ligaments of the foot that supports the arch, carrying the weight of the body.

These ligaments, muscles and tendons, become tired and relaxed under the enormous work, allowing the arch to lower and cause tired aching feet, weak ankles, rheumatism, flat foot, cramped toes, bunions, callouses, etc. The "FOOT-EASER" insole support instantly relieves all foot troubles, brings rest and peace to body and mind; does just what its name implies. EVIDENCE POINTING TO SUICIDE MAY BE ONLY BLIND. CLARA MEYERS, 18-YEAR-OLD GIRL WHO DISAPPEARED AND WHOSE LETTERS POINT TO SUICIDE.

Cincinnati.—Has 18-year-old Clara Meyers committed suicide or met with foul play? Circumstantial evidence points to the former but the latter lack of any known motive leads the parents to think otherwise.

The young girl has lived happily with her parents at Batesville, Ind., up to last Wednesday. She suddenly disappeared and the only news has been a letter and postal card from the girl dated at Cincinnati. Both showed despondency.

Last Friday, John Ware, who is in charge of the Blair sand barge on the river, found a purse containing an automobile veil, a handkerchief, and a business card and turned them over to the police.

Monday Mr. Meyers, accompanied by his wife came to Cincinnati to learn what progress the police had made in their search. It was then that the purse and veil were shown to the couple. The mother at sight of the purse and veil broke into tears, identifying the property as that of her lost daughter.

The parents say that they have no idea why the girl left home; that she was in the best of health and spirits

FOR YOUR HEALTH'S SAKE

THE MIDDLE HORSE.

A farmer, plowing with three horses hitched abreast, noticed that the middle horse became tired and exhausted long before either of its mates. As the animal was the equal in every way of the other two, he was puzzled as to the cause of its not being able to stand the same amount of work. He finally observed, however, that as they drew the plow along the three horses held their noses close together, and with the result that the middle horse was compelled to breathe the expired air from its fellows. The farmer then procured a long "jockey" stick which he fastened with straps to the bits of the outside horses. The device worked perfectly; for, given its rightful share of good, fresh air, the middle horse was able to do the same amount of work and with no greater fatigue than its fellows.

Many persons are like the middle horse; they do not get their rightful share of fresh, pure air. And this is why they are not able to perform as much work nor of as good a quality as they would otherwise be able to do.

at the hotel and asked the price of a night's lodging and then asked for a letterhead and an envelope. In the letter she requested that the postman, that she would be found in the river. She complained about having found any work in this city and said: "I am better off dead, Goodbye, Clara."

Her father doubts the suicide story and has offered a reward for the return of the girl.

Rarest Dog in the World.

The "Sleeve dog of China" is the rarest breed of dog in the world. With the head of a pug, he has the underjaw and characteristic "wheel back" of the bulldog, a type to which his body conformation closely approximates. He has the same bowed forelegs, short in proportion to the hind legs, and quarters lightly made in comparison with his broad and massive front. Altogether he is the quaintest and most delightful of toy-dogs, but so jealously he is cherished by the royal family of China that it is difficult to obtain a really good specimen.

India Victims of Tigers.

The ferocity of the tiger can be seen from the fact that according to a recent writer he is made responsible for 37 per cent. of the human beings killed by the wild animals of Hindustan. The writer adds that once a tiger has tasted human flesh he is satisfied with nothing else, and that in southern India one of these man-eating tigers has devoured 200 human beings.

BAILEY ASSAILS TARIFF BILL

SENATOR DECLARES PRINCIPLE OF PROTECTIVE TARIFF IS UNFAIR.

IN FAVOR OF INCOME TAX

Makes Two-Day Speech on Measure and Gets Into a Discussion with Aldrich—Overman Would Tax
Alms $12 Each.

Washington, Apr. 27.—Senator Bailey of Texas today resumed the attack which he began yesterday on the tariff bill. He devoted his speech to-day principally to the legal phase of the question.

In his speech yesterday Senator Bailey denounced the principle of a protective tariff as unfair in taking money from one man to give it to another in order to encourage him in the pursuit of an otherwise unprofitable business.

Aldrich Asks Questions.

After he had proceeded without interruption for over an hour several senators engaged in colloquies with him. Referring to Mr. Bailey's statement that the duties of the pending bill might be lowered 33 1/3 per cent, Mr. Aldrich asked whether he supposed the profits of American industries equaled that amount. Mr. Bailey replied that in the case of the United States Steel corporation he believed they had, and he cited the increased capitalization of that organization as an evidence of enormous profit. He insisted that such a lowering of the rate of duty would not seriously affect importations, because he believed American manufacturers would be stimulated by the added foreign competition and would continue to supply the markets.

Mr. Bailey discussed his amendment providing for an income tax, which was criticized by Mr. Aldrich as tending to reduce the protection that would be given American labor if it should result in a proportionate decrease of customs duties. Mr. Bailey favored restriction of immigration as a protection to American labor. Mr. Aldrich retorted that while Mr. Bailey was ready to keep the foreign labor from our shores, he was not averse to allowing the product of this cheap labor to come in competition with the product of American workmen.

Asks If Tax Is Socialist.

Mr. Bailey also became involved in a discussion with Mr. Aldrich with regard to the latter's utterance in the senate in 1894 that the income tax was supported by the Socialist, Populist and Democratic parties. Mr. Bailey said that Mr. Taft now favored an income tax and asked Mr. Aldrich if he considered the president a Socialist, Populist or Democrat. Mr. Aldrich replied that his statement was true at the time it was made.

Contending that he had always voted against extravagance, Mr. Bailey declared that Mr. Aldrich had voted for substantially all large appropriation measures. He said that the Rhode Island senator's recent statement in favor of economy indicated that he had been converted. This conversation, contended Mr. Bailey, occurred when the burden was about to be placed on the rich.

To Talk of Supreme Court.

Postponing the conclusion of his remarks until today, when, he said, he would give some attention to supreme court decisions on an income tax, Mr. Bailey said in conclusion:

"I do not think that any citizen or senator is precluded from indulging in just and fair criticism of any question relating to any department of this government. I am willing to stand uncovered in the presence of that great tribunal, but I am not willing to be silent. The judgment of the supreme court governs me in any particular case and I submit without complaint to that judgment, but I do not subscribe to the doctrine that because the judges have spoken all other men must receive their speech in silence."

Mr. Overman of North Carolina offered an amendment to the bill by which he proposes to place a head tax of $12 on each immigrant coming into the United States. Mr. Overman estimated that the head tax on aliens which he proposed would bring to the government $4,000,000 to $10,000,000 revenue.

MASONS MEET IN JOPLIN.

Missouri's Grand Council and Grand Chapter Are in Session.

Joplin, Mo., Apr. 27.—Masons from all over Missouri are in Joplin to-day to attend the sessions of the Grand Chapter of Iopai Arch Masons, which opened at ten o'clock this morning. The headquarters are at the Hotel Connor, and local masons have arranged a liberal program of entertainment for their guests. This afternoon the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters began its annual meeting, and in the evening the grand convention of Anointed High Priests of Missouri will be held. A large number of candidates will receive the order of high priest with elaborate ceremonies.

Indiana Debaters Defeated.

Baldwin, Kan., Apr. 27.—In a debate between Baker university and DePaul university of Greenfield, Ind., here last night the Baker debaters won a unanimous decision. The question was "Resolved, that all corporations engaged in interstate business should be required to take out federal licenses."

By-Product of Coal.

Pigments of more than 400 different colors are secured from coal.

PEACE FOR THE MINERS IS EXPECTED THIS WEEK

Settlement of Wage Troubles Regarded as Certain Following Union Men's Conference.

Scranton, Pa., Apr. 27.—A peaceable agreement between miners and anthracite operators is expected to result from the tri-district convention of the union men which began in this city this morning.

Preliminary to today's convention the members of the three anthracite executive boards met yesterday with National President Lewis presiding, and considered the general proposition of the mine owners and five amendments to the operators' offer that are said to have been accepted by the employers at the last conference in Philadelphia.

The executive boards were in secret session for four hours discussing the latest propositions, and during the meeting the members voted not to make them public until they are laid before the delegates. There is much curiosity among the miners to see what the leaders have agreed to in the matter of the recognition of the union. Mr. Lewis is on record as saying that he will never sign an agreement unless he can do so as president of the miners' national organization, but it is believed that some arrangement has been agreed to that will permit the renewal of the old agreement for another period of three years.

CONFERENCE OF CHURCH CLUBS.

National Organization's Members Meet in New York.

New York, Apr. 27.—With the celebration of the Holy Communion in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, on Fifth avenue near Forty-fifth street, at seven o'clock this morning, the seventeenth annual conference of Church Clubs of the United States began. It is 9:30 there was a second celebration of the communion, followed by an address by the bishop of New York, in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. An hour later the first session of the conference was called to order by the president, Robert H. Gardiner of Maine. After the transaction of routine business, Prof. Charles S. Baldwin of Yale delivered an address on "Immigration and the Church." The afternoon was taken up by the reports of committees. This evening the delegates and others will be the guests of the Church club of New York at a dinner in the Hotel Astor.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; ONE DEAD.

Merchants of Illinois and Wisconsin in Fatal Accident.

Chicago, Apr. 27.—An automobile containing five dry goods merchants was struck by a Chicago & Northwestern railroad train at six o'clock last night near Elmhurst, Ill., one of their number being killed and the others more or less injured.

The dead man was A. H. Kenna, 38 years old, proprietor of a dry goods store at Pontiac, Ill. The injured are: W. N. McAllister, Sycamore, Ill., president of a dry goods store syndicate; legs cut and bruised about the head and body.

C. H. Martin, manager of a dry goods store at Dixon, Ill.; shoulders, back and head bruised.

Charles Hirsch, Morrison, Ill., manager of a dry goods store; back bruised and injured internally.

James Wilde, Whitewater, Wis.; head cut and bruised.

ROOSEVELT ILL IN AFRICA.

Anxiety Felt at the White House Over the Report.

Washington, Apr. 27.—The news cabled from Nairobi, British East Africa, reporting the illness of former President Roosevelt and his son, caused anxiety at the White House, but it is believed that the indisposition can be due to nothing more than the radical change of climate and that Mr. Roosevelt and Kermit, being in excellent condition, will become acclimated quickly.

The White House has not received any direct message from the hunting party.

"DRYS" WIN TWO COUNTIES.

Indiana's Anti-Liquor Forces Again Victors at Polls.

Indianapolis, Ind., Apr. 27.—Jackson and White counties voted "dry" in local option elections yesterday, the former by an unofficial majority of 570 and the latter by 1,439.

Twenty-five saloons will be closed in Jackson county and two in White. The total number of counties "dry" under the local option law now is 44.

Taft Is Census Arbitrator.

Washington, Apr. 27.—Whether Dr. S. N. D. North shall remain as director of the census bureau is in the hands of President Taft. Dr. North has made every promise that he will work as a willing subordinate to the secretary of commerce and labor, and with that promise Mr. Nagel will be satisfied if the president decides to retain Dr. North.

Engineer Gets Carnegie Medal.

Evansville, Ind., Apr. 27.—For saving the life of a negro boy who was playing on the railroad track, Raymond L. May, a fireman on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railroad near here, was awarded a Carnegie medal.

Conried Dies in Austria.

Moran, Tyrol, Austria, Apr. 27.—Heinrich Conried, former director of the Metropolitan opera house in New York, who suffered an apoplectic stroke several days ago, died peacefully at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Use for Electric Heating Devices.

Electric heating devices are successfully employed for branding cigar boxes.

THE JAPS WANT NO CONFLICT

NIPPONESE ADMIRAL SAYS CON-FLICT WITH AMERICA IS IMPOSSIBLE.

TALKS WITH "FIGHTING BOB"

Friendly "Sea Dogs" Agree That Their Nations Are Not Likely to Fight
Each Other—Japanese Spies Reported at Canal.

Los Angeles, Cal., Apr. 27.—That war is impossible between the United States and Japan, is the agreement reached by Rear Admiral Evans, known the world over as "Fighting Bob," and Admiral Ijehi, commander of the Japanese training squadron now at San Pedro. The old friends discussed the question yesterday and were of the same mind that there is no chance of such a conflict.

"I see they have been trying to get us in trouble," said Admiral Evans.

"Yes," replied Admiral Ijehi. "But such a thing is perfectly impossible. The United States and Japan understand each other too well for anything of that kind. The people of your country and mine have too deep seated a friendship for each other to ever allow any trivial matter to bring about trouble."

"I agree with you," said Admiral Evans. "Such a thought is ridiculous."

Delighted with Reception.

Admiral Ijehi told Admiral Evans he was delighted with his reception at Los Angeles. He commented upon the apparent friendliness of the officials as well as the press and public and predicted that he and his men would be equally well received at other American ports.

"I would like to know," inquired Admiral Evans, "how your people succeeded in raising the Russian ships which you sank and in what condition you found them?"

Admiral Ijehi replied: "We raised the sunken battleships and cruisers at Port Arthur and Chemulpo without any great difficulty. We found that those at Port Arthur were not sunk by the mortar fire directed upon them from 203 Meter hill. None of the shells penetrated the protected decks, although the superstructure and gun mountings were badly shattered. The ships were sunk by the Russians by opening the smokestacks when they found the port must fall into our hands. After raising the ships we found that the projectiles had penetrated the wooden decks, but had flattened out against the steel and were lying there. It evidently would not have been possible to sink the ships by the fire from the heights."

Spies at Panama Canal.

Washington, Apr. 27.—A report has reached Washington that Japanese spies, with the connivance of the republic of Colombia are entering the canal zone on the isthmus of Panama and are making sketches of canal work and proposed defenses.

After fortifications have been built to guard the canal, every one who has no proper business within them will be excluded, but until that time the government will not molest the Japanese spies that wish to make sketches and obtain information. The attitude of this government is that at this time there is nothing to conceal.

TRAIN FOR THE PRESIDENT.

Representative Dwight Presents Plan Providing for Tours.

Washington, Apr. 27.—If a bill introduced by Mr. Dwight of New York becomes a law, the United States will own a complete railway train consisting of a baggage car, a sleeping car and a private car for the exclusive use of the president of the United States.

The sum of $30,000 to be expended by the secretary of war is provided and he is authorized to annually enter into contracts with railway companies for hauling the train.

For expenses in connection with the travels of the president, his guests and attendants the sum of $25,000 is appropriated to be immediately available.

May Continue Whittaker Case.

Mercer, Pa., Apr. 27.—With counsel for the defense demanding an immediate trial and the prosecution alleged to be in favor of its postponement, the time for the trial of "Mrs. James H. Boyle" on a charge of kidnapping Willie Whittaker is still undetermined, though Boyle's case will be heard next Friday. It is alleged that the Pennsylvania officials are not in possession of material evidence against the woman, and are postponing the trial for the purpose of securing the lacking information.

Drops Dead While Plowing.

Danville, Ill., Apr. 27.—"This is splendid, and I do not know when I have felt better than I do right now," said William Whittaker, a wealthy farmer living near Oakwood. Less than three hours later Mrs. Whittaker, on crossing the field where her husband was working, found his dead body where the man had fallen behind the plow. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict of heart failure.

Bride Commits Suicide.

Penn, Ind., Apr. 27.—Mrs. Jessie O. borne, bride of ten days, committed suicide yesterday afternoon.

Millions of Miles of Salt.

The world's oceans contain 7,000,000 cubic miles of salt.

HEIRSS WAS NOT KIDNAPED.

Adelle Boas Left Home to Work, But Gets Tired.

New York, Apr. 27.—Adelle Boas, the 13-year-old daughter of Arthur B. Boas, a millionaire thread manufacturer, is at home to-day with her parents; the mystery of her disappearance last Friday has been dispelled and the case resolves itself into nothing more than the escapade of a child with a sudden desire to see the world, Boston in particular, and a wish to be independent and work for a living.

With a cut finger and disheveled clothes and apparently suffering from fatigue Adelle's parents are sure that she realizes that there are pleasanter experiences than going forth alone to a strange city in search of adventure.

With the first shock of the meeting with her parents over, the child told more of her movements in Boston. The position she had in a restaurant there was to have brought her $2.50 a week, with board and lodging.

Says Castro Buried Gold.

Caracas, Venezuela, Apr. 24. Via Port of Spain, Apr. 27.—It is persistently reported here that Cipriano Castro left a fortune in gold buried in Caracas. If this is true it explains Castro's alleged lack of funds and his anxiety to get back to Venezuela.

KINDERGARTEN UNION MEETS.

Child Educators Hold Sixteenth Annual Convention in Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Apr. 27.—The International Kindergarten union formally opened its sixteenth annual convention this afternoon in the First Universalist church, with its president, Miss Patty S. Hill, of New York, in the chair. The committee of 19, which directs the activities of the union, held meetings yesterday and this morning, but the afternoon gathering was the first general session. The attendance is large, all parts of the country being represented.

Miss Ella C. Elder, supervisor of kindergartens of Buffalo, and chairman of the program committee, welcomed the union to the city, and then Dr. John Angus MacVann, director of the kindergarten department of Columbia university's teachers' college, delivered an address on "Materials of the Kindergarten." A conference of training teachers and supervisors followed.

HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION.

Minnesota Royal Arcanum's Grand Council Meets in St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Apr. 27.—The grand council of Minnesota, Royal Arcanum, met in annual session this morning in U. C. T. hall with Grand Regent W. W. McFarlane of Minneapolis presiding. The report of Grand Secretary George T. Hughes of Duluth showed the present membership in the state to be about 5,100. The growth during the year past has been slow on account of the financial stringency. The financial affairs of the order were reported as in excellent condition.

Ice Breaks; Fleet Released.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Apr. 27.—The ice blockade between the upper and lower lakes, which has kept a fleet of nearly 100 ships held up in the river here, was broken yesterday afternoon when the steamships Carleton and Northern Queen forced their way down from Lake Superior.

Sunday to Conduct Revival.

Danville, Ill., Apr. 27.—Arrangements were completed here whereby Billy Sunday, the famous baseball evangelist, will start a series of meetings in this city on November 10 next.

Mortgage on a Cat.

A mortgage on a cat is not often heard of. However, the other day there was filed in the recorder's office a chattel mortgage the consideration of which was $20. The property on which the money was secured was described as a "cat called Jo-Jo."—Columbus Dispatch.

A Widow Wordalogue

By Helen Rowland.

"Come with me," said the Widow, mysteriously, leading the Bachelor toward the waiting hansom, "and I'll show you the greatest invention of the age."

"What is it?" demanded the Bachelor, halting suspiciously.

"The latest triumph of whalebone and steel," responded the Widow, waving her violet parasol dramatically as she gently pushed him toward the hansom. "The newest things in figures and fashions. I'm going to the dress-makers' convention."

"But I don't want to be shocked," complained the Bachelor, squirming in his seat of the hansom. "And I'm not interested in fashions, nor in instruments of torture, nor human suffering, nor monomania, nor—"

"In what, Mr. Travers?"

"In the ridiculous fashions of women," explained the Bachelor, bluntly.

"It's the ridiculous taste of men that inspires them," retorted the Widow, tartly.

"Nonsense!" protested the Bachelor.

"No man admires a human work of art, nor a forest of false hair, nor a figure that works on springs, nor—"

"Of course you don't," put the Widow, sympathetically, "on principle. Theoretically, you don't approve of rouge, nor dyed hair, nor peep-a-boo waists, nor sheath gowns, nor—nor Sallow; but when it comes to practice it's always the girl with the pink chin and the butter-colored hair and the openwork stockings and the hand-made fluro that you turn around in the street to stare after."

"I don't!" declared the Bachelor.

"And the woman who rustles like a whirlwind and leaves a path of patches behind her to whom you are pinning for an introduction?"

"It's false!" cried the Bachelor, indignantly.

"Of course it's false," acquiesced the Widow, quite unruffled. "But it's feminine. Ruffles and curls and lace and perfumes are the insignia of femininity, and it's a woman's femininity, not her strength of mind and breadth of character, that attracts a man. Theoretically you admire flat heels and physical culture and sweet simplicity and beauties of the soul, and date on a girl with high ideals and principles, but that isn't the kind a woman hesitates to introduce her husband to; it's the kind with high heels and a straight front figure and Paquin gowns."

"And yet," sighed the Bachelor, "I don't know a $40 hat from a four dollar one, nor chiffon from calico print."

"No man does," agreed the Widow, scathingly. "No man knows what a woman has on any more than he knows what an artist has put into a painting, but he can tell a well-dressed woman from a frump as quickly as he can tell a real picture from a dabb. Do you fancy woman powder their noses and peroxide their hair merely for the pleasure of dabbling in chemicals? Do you imagine they wear tight corsets and French heels merely because they are playing for indignation and a pain in the side? Do you suppose—"

"I hadn't supposed anything about it," broke in the Bachelor, desperately. "But if you make early Christian martyrs of yourselves in order to fascinate us, you are wasting your time. A man doesn't respect nor admire a woman that is gotten up like the third act of a comic opera chorus."

"Who wants to be respected and admired and left at home?" demanded the Widow, scornfully. "Who wants to be a modest violet, when all the men are around the corner chasing chrysanthemums and orchids? If women are frivolous and artificial and useless, it's men who have made them so. No woman is going to spend her days in the pursuit of virtue and economy and the cook book while you are spending yours in the pursuit of some foolish little thing you don't know a broom from an egg-beater and wouldn't know what to do with a scruple if she had one, but who knows how to wear her hats and—"

"Oh, well," broke in the Bachelor, desperately. "If we men are that kind, why do you care?"

"You're the only kind there is," sighed the Widow. "And—and here we are!"

"Where are they?" demanded the Bachelor, glancing eagerly around, as the Widow led him into a room full of wire mannikins draped in imported gowns.

"Where are what, Mr. Travers?"

"The—the inventions?"

"I don't know what you are talking about."

"The triumphs in whalebone and steel."

The Widow wrinkled her brows questioningly.

"The models," explained the Bachelor. "The live ones."

"Billy Travers!" exclaimed the Widow. "Did you think I would bring you here when there was a demonstration going on? Did you think you were going to see live models?"

"I know I was going to be shocked," grumbled the Bachelor, bitterly, "but didn't know it would be such a shock."

"A shock?" inquired the Widow.

"Of disappointment," sighed the Bachelor, as he disengaged himself from the folds of a mauve gown on a wire mannikin and tripped over a white lace train in his endeavor to escape.

Largest Refracting Telescope.

The largest refracting telescope ever constructed was presented to the University of Chicago by Mr. Yerkes. It has a 40-inch object glass.

The Funny Things We Hear.

"What time is it?" "Just struck 12." "Oh, it must be later than that. You couldn't have counted right."—Boston Transcript.

BEACH HARGIS, WHO IS UP FOR A SECOND TRIAL FOR THE KILLING OF HIS FATHER.

Irving, Ky.—This city is crowded tonight with adherents and enemies of Beach Hargis, paroled killer, whose trial is creating much excitement. Besides numerous witnesses here, there are Mrs. Louellen Hargis, the widow of the late Beach Hargis; Judge D. B. Rodwin, his attorney; Attorney A. P. Byrd, counsel for the prosecution, and Elbert Hargis, brother of the late Judge James Hargis, who will prosecute his nephew for the murder of his brother.

The sentiment is very adverse to the defendant, the only sympathy felt being on account of his mother, who has shown a devotion to him that is almost unparalleled. She is devoting every energy possible to protect him, not only against the murder charge, but against himself.

Beach Hargis is being tried for the killing of his father, Judge James Hargis, about 18 months ago, in the latter's store at Jackson, Ky. Judge James Hargis was identified with, and, in fact, was credited with being a leader of one of the feud factions which made this section of the country notorious. Many persons were killed on both sides and Judge Hargis himself was tried for complicity in the killing of Dr. James B. Marcan.

He was killed by his own son, who claimed that his father ill-treated him.

Where Nell Gwynne Lived.

This office of secretary to a cabinet officer requires the smoothest, most diplomatic, most polished, most experienced kind of man. His remarks are interpreted frequently to express the sentiments of his superior and for that reason he must keep absolutely still on all matters pertaining to the government. It is a continual nervous strain and it requires youth and vigor to withstand the trials of a private secretary. This office is uniformly filled by young men highly educated and of refinement. It is no uncommon thing for a private secretary who "makes good" to be advanced in many ways, for young men of the caliber required for this work are hard to find and if they make good here they will make good elsewhere.

Washington, D. C.—The private secretary to the cabinet officers is the man who really does the routine and disagreeable work of the office. It is he who meets the "glad hand" artist, listens to the many tales of woe and "pacific disappointed office seeker. He works day and night. His principal attention is given to protecting his chief, but he must send everybody away in a happy frame of mind.

TO RUSH WORK

ON INTERURBAN

PRESIDENT OF CINCINNATI CON-

STRUCTION COMPANY MAKES

STATEMENT.

START AT MADISON END

Says That If Possible Actual Digging

Will Begin Within The Next

Three Weeks.

With the passage of the franchise

granted to the Cincinnati Construction company by the council last evening,

the only remaining obstacle on building the road is the state franchise which is granted by the state railway commission.

Just before leaving the Myers Hotel

this morning en route for Madison in

John C. McKenna's big touring car,

H. H. Ziegler, President of the Cincinnati

Construction Company said: "We are now ready to go before the state railway commission and ask for our franchise to build the road. With the action of the council last evening, the message of franchise in Madison and Stoughton and a good portion of the right of way between this city and Madison already secured there should be but little further delay.

"If you can arrange the details at the Madison end and secure our franchise from the state railway commission we can begin work of construction in three weeks. Our Chief Engineer Joseph Ellis has his survey practically completed, his blue prints drawn, ready to be presented to the railway commission and the arrangements about entering Madison remain

yet to be settled.

We have been assured by members of the City Board of Public Works that they will aid us in every way to secure an agreement with the Madison Traction company so we can use their tracks,

and this will make matters much easier.

In fact, I will not be surprised to see the first train running within three weeks, although a month to six weeks

would be a more conservative estimate."

Mr. John C. McKenna, of Madison, met us here last evening with his big touring car and accompanied by Mr.

Ellis, our engineer, and Judge Garrett, our counsel, one of our oldest

Janesville residents, who is from Janesville, is making the trip from

Madison to Madison today, covering nearly as many miles as the proposed route. This evening we are guests at a banquet in Madison, at which the interurban project will be the subject of discussion.

When asked the reason for starting construction at the Madison end, Mr.

Ziegler explained that the company wanted to reach the lake region with their cars as soon as possible and that it was shorter to do this by the Madison end.

Mr. Ellis, who has been in the city some weeks, has his maps ready for the railway commission and expressed his opinion that if the franchise was granted shortly the road would be completed by the end of the summer.

The route is a new construction, passing across the marshes here, and across the hills to the first lake.

At first lake it touches one end,

the extreme western one, and skirts

along the shore for some distance;

then runs directly into Stoughton; it passes through the marsh streets of Stoughton and then to Madison on a private right of way. It will make the main street of this city and run an air line across the country to the vicinity of Indian Ford.

It will follow the river but a short distance and then come into Janesville on North Main street. This is the survey as outlined briefly without going into detail, and while it follows

some of the previous lines it is more of an air line between this city and Edgerton than any of the previous routes laid out.

Mr. Ziegler is much pleased with the reception his application for a franchise received from the Janesville council and said that the people of Janesville would not regret having given his company the right to construct the road, as they intend to build it as far as possible now.

MEN'S LEAGUE HAD

ENJOYABLE EVENING

One Hundred Members And Guests

Hear Fine Program at League's

Last Meeting.

The banquet given by the Men's

League of the Carroll Memorial church last night was well attended in spite of the inclement weather, about a hundred covers being laid for members and their guests. After the supper which was served by the ladies of the church, the musical and literary program, as announced, was carried out.

The violin solo by Miss Lucille Cul-ton was well rendered and called for an encore. Mr. Webb of Evansville was in good voice and delighted his audience with a finished rendition of

"The Sweetest Flower That Grows,"

and "Little Fish Girl." He was accompanied by Professor Taylor. "The Swing Song," as sung by Mrs. Don

Collins was also a choice number, and the duet by Miss Maud Bruce and Mr.

E. E. Van Pool also proved very acceptable. Miss Bruce has a very strong and sweet soprano voice and

Mr. Van Pool never fails to delight his audience. Mrs. S. C. Burnham responded to the toast, "Our Guests," and paid a glowing tribute to the ladies. The response by Mrs. C. V.

Lillard was in keeping with her well established reputation as an entertaining speaker. Mr. H. E. Bliss reviewed the history of the league and the future, and some lines of work for the future.

The Toast of Spring, by Mr.

Alva G. Smith indicated that Mr. Austin was not a smoker and that he was suffering from an attack of the spring fever, as is the average mortal of this season of the year. Superintendent

Dean H. C. Budd delighted his audi-

MILTON CLUB PLANS

TOWN IMPROVEMENT

Desire Improvement of Yards And

Will Do Much to Beautify Homes

And Parks.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Milton, Wis., April 25.—The W. V.

club requests the people to decorate their porches and windows with vines and flower boxes. An effort will be made to confine the driving on the highways to the center of the roadbed so far as may be possible, about the park, and thus prevent destroying the grass at the side. The cleaning up of the back yards of the village is a matter for consideration and action. Concentrated effort in this direction would result in great improvement in the appearance of the best village in Rock county.

The reception given Miss Shirkin

Polashova, of Bulgaria, at the Congregational parlance last Thursday was a very pleasing and instructive occasion. Miss Polashova is a bright, attractive speaker and is certainly very much in earnest in her chosen calling. She is working for the establishment of a national club in Chicago for her own countrymen.

Miss Polashova deserves great credit for her courage in coming to a strange country without money or friends to sit herself for the betterment of Bulgarians who come to America. She is now a student at the Moody Bible institute of Chicago.

At the meeting of the Wisconsin

branch of the Women's Interior

Board of Missions of the Congregational church held at Ripon last week,

Miss Lucy E. Walker of this village was elected president, and Miss M.

A. Borden, secretary of Milwaukee work.

John M. Home, of Janesville, who recently returned from a winter in Florida, spent Sunday here with his sisters.

Paul H. Burdick of Minneapolis has been visiting Milton relatives this week.

Mrs. G. C. Reynolds spent Sunday

and Monday in Janesville.

S. W. Clarke and wife went to Walworth Monday and that evening Mr.

Clarke served as judge in a literary contest.

Miss Helen and wife are visiting their son at Monroe.

Miss Lillian Smith, of Chicago, who graduated here, has been visiting her sister, Mae Smith, of the college faculty.

H. L. Polan preached at the S. D.

B. church Saturday morning.

Ellert Patter, of Chillicothe, Mo.,

an old father of Milton, was in town

Friday.

CHAPTER XI. Eureka.

Whatever that girl might have expected from us, I guess she didn't expect that! It set her back so that she couldn't speak for a full minute; which was something of a miracle, as I found out later.

"Can I wait?" she says, finally. "Can you cook?" asks Van Hunt again.

"Can I—?" Then she turns to me. "He ought to be attended to right on," she says, referring to Van. "Some of that wet has soaked in and he's got water on the brain. Take that poor rooster away from him afore he squeezes it to death."

Van laughed and dropped the rooster. I caltate he'd forgot that he had it. "Let me explain," he began. "You see, we—"

Hartley spoke then. "Wait a minute," says he, laughing. "I suggest that we adjourn to the house and get into some dry clothes. Then we can talk business, if the young lady is willing."

The girl looked at him. "Business is what I'm here for," says she. "Which of you three is the quahaug one?"

"The which?" says I; and the Heavens both said the same.

"Which of you is the quahaug one?" I've got some business to talk with him."

"Martin," says Van, grave, and turning to his chum. "Are you a quahaug one?"

"I guess he is," says I. I was beginning to see a light. Hartley's clamoring cruise was turning out as I'd expected.

"Humph!" says the girl. "Well, you made a clean job, Lys says. About three buckets and a half, wa'n't they?"

You never see a man so puzzled as Hartley, unless 'twas Van Hunt. They looked at each other, at the girl, and then at me. I explained.

"I judge 'twas this young woman's quahaug bed that you and James cleaned out 'tother day," I says. "You remember, I told you we'd hear from them quahaugs later."

"Oh!" says Martin. "Awfully sorry, I'm sure. I hope you'll permit me to pay for—"

She bobbed the sunbonnet up and down. "That's what I come for," says she. "They was my brother Lycurgus' quahaugs. He'd just bedded 'em. Quahaugs is worth a dollar a bucket this time of year. That's three dollars and a half. I won't charge you for the sticks, though what on earth you done with them is more'n I can make out, and Lys says the same."

Van was grinning from ear to ear. T'other Twin reached into his pocket and fished out a sopping-wet pocket-book.

"Will the three fifty be sufficient?" he asks, troubled. "I'm really very sorry. It was a mistake, and—"

"Oh, it's all right," says the girl. "You didn't know no better. Pa says fools and children ain't accountable. You'd better spread that money out to dry afore you pay me with it. And you'd better get dry yourself or you'll catch cold. I can wait a spell, I guess. Why don't you go after your boat, mister?" she says to me. "You'll lose it first thing you know."

THUMPING HEADACHES.
Many Jamesville Women Have Them, But Few Know the Real Cause.

Dull, thumping headaches, Sick, prostrating headaches, Dizzy, whirling, blind headaches—Point to disorders of the kidneys. Tell of uric poisons in the blood. Nerveless may ease the pain. But won't cure the cause.

Donn's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. Remove uric poisons, purify the blood.

Banish headache, backache, urinary ills. Here's Jamesville testimony to prove it.

Mrs. Emilie Holl, living at 418 S. Franklin St., Jamesville, Wis., says: "I suffered terribly from pains about the small part of my back for months. My head aches at times and later the acretions from my kidneys began to act irregularly. I was feeling miserable when someone told me to get Donn's Kidney Pills. I procured them from the People's Drug Co. and after many others who are suffering from aches and pains, brought on by kidney disorder, will try Donn's Kidney Pills and be convinced of their worth."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Donn's—and take no other.

If you but knew what harsh cathartics do, you'd always use Cascarets.

Candy tablets, vegetable and mild. Yet just as effective as salts and calomel. Take one when you need it. Stop the trouble promptly. Never wait till night.

Get a box, 10 cents—at drug stores. Each tablet of the genuine is marked C. C. C.

I looked where she pointed and there was the skiff stranded bottom up on the tip end of the point flat. I ran after it, waded in and hauled it ashore. The Heavens hurried up to the house. When I come back the girl was waiting for me.

"I'll walk along up with you," she says. "Say, you're Solomon Pratt."

"Well," says I, "maybe you know somebody else that would do for us. Who's a good cook and general housekeeper that would be likely to hire out?"

She thought for a moment or so. "I don't know," she says. "Most folks in this neighborhood is too high toned to go out working. They'd rather stay to home and take boarders. Mrs. Hannah Jane Purvis is about the only one, and you've had her."

Martin made a face. "We have," he says.

"Yup," says Eureka. "She told Mr. Scudder that you was crazy as all get out, and sunk in worldly sin besides. She said you'd get your pay hereafter for treating her the way you did."

"We hope to," says Van, cheerful. "Now, Miss—er—Sparrow, we want you to come and help us out. We're Crusoes on a desert island and we need a Man—I should say Woman—Friday. We'll pay you so much," he says, naming a price that made even my eyes stick out, and I was used to high prices by this time.

"A month?" she says, staring at him.

"A week," says he.

She had a queer way of doing everything by jerks, like as if she was hung on wires and worked with a string. Now she straightened up out of her chair so sudden you almost expected to hear her snap.

"A week?" she sings out. "Oh!" Then she looked at me.

"Oh, it's so, if he says so," says I, resigned like.

"Land sakes! A week! I never—but it ain't no use. What would become of pa and the children?"

"Couldn't you come over for the days, at least?" asks Martin. "You might go home nights, you know."

And that's the way it ended, finally. The Twins had made up their minds, and when that happened, heaven and earth wouldn't change 'em. At last Eureka said she'd talk it over with her folks and Van Hunt said we would come over to her house next day and get the decision.

"There!" says he, when the Sparrow girl had gone. "Skipper, the cook question is settled."

"Maybe 'tis," says I. "Looks to me as if you'd settled it the way the feller settled the coffee, by upsetting it. For chaps that placed for rest and quiet you two do queer things. Do you realize what getting mixed up with that Sparrow gang is likely to mean?"

"If the whole flock is like the specimen bird we've seen," he says, "it'll mean joy. If there was one thing needed to make Orono Island a delight, a gem of purest ray serene, that original would be the thing. She's a circus in herself. I shall dream tonight of pa and the doctor. Ho, ho! By the way, what's her Christian name?"

I told the name—the whole of it. How them Heavens did laugh.

"Eureka!" says Hartley. "Splendid!"

and cook for us, and help about the house here? Mr. Pratt finds the job too big for one man."

She bobbed her head. "Yup," says she, dry as a chip. "I should think he might, judging by what I've seen. No, I can't come. I've got to stay home and look out for the folks."

"Why can't your father do that?" asks Hartley.

"Who—pa? I guess you ain't heard about pa. He's sick. Got his never-get-over, he says. Pa's had most every kind of symptom there is; phthisis and influenza, and lumbago and pleurisy. Now he's settled down to consumption and nervous dyspepsia. Afore ma died she used to try to cure him, but the doctor and pa had a row. The doctor said pa didn't have consumption nor nothing else; what he needed was hard exercise, such as work. Pa said the doc didn't know his business, and the doc said maybe not, but he knew pa. So pa told him never to darken our door again, and he ain't—except to come around once in a while and collect something from me on the bill."

"Well," says I, "maybe you know somebody else that would do for us. Who's a good cook and general housekeeper that would be likely to hire out?"

Household Worries

The woman who has the care of children in addition to her household duties frequently finds the drain upon her vitality more than her constitution can stand. She becomes nervous, irritable, passes sleepless nights, has headache, backache and other weaknesses that make life miserable. For such there is nothing that gives such quick relief as which acts directly upon the nerves, refreshing and strengthening them. It is in a very weak condition; could not gain any strength; on the contrary, lapsed into nervous prostration. "No Three o'clock Fatigue"

Dr. Miles' Nerve

The Value of the Monarch Light Touch

A typewriter is not an automatic machine with a fixed output; the amount of work produced must always be dependent upon the operator.

The operator begins work in the morning with a certain supply of physical energy. With the ordinary heavy working typewriter she exhausts that energy before the day's end—then comes "three o'clock fatigue" and slow, dragging work.

Monarch Light Touch lightens the operator's load—draws less on her energy per folio. The result is that the operator is able to maintain full speed right up to closing time, finishing fresh and strong. Her efficiency is increased, the output of her machine is enlarged, and consequently the per folio cost of typewriting to her employer is reduced.

Let us demonstrate this and other Monarch features to you.
